DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on June 21, 2004 has been entered.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed June 21, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

a. With regards to the rejection of claims 1-6 over YOSHIKAWA et al. (US 4,872,932) in view of JP 10-053010, Applicants argue that the present invention provides unexpectedly superior results and refer to comparative example comparing the example disclosed in the secondary reference in JP '010.

It is noted that Applicants are not addressing the rejection over the combination of references. In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

b. Applicant's arguments and amendment, filed on June 21, 2004, with respect to objection of drawings and the rejection of claims 1-6 over 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph have been fully considered and are persuasive. The objection of the drawings has been withdrawn. The rejection of claims 1-6 under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph has been withdrawn.

c. The obviousness-type double patenting rejection over copending application no. 10/019,250 in view of JP 10-053010 has been withdrawn in view of Applicant's Terminal Disclaimer filed June 21, 2004.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-4 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over YOSHIKAWA et al. (US 4,872,932) in view of JP 10-053010.

YOSHIKAWA et al. discloses a method for preparing rubbery composite materials and teaches that a metal such as zinc, copper, cobalt, and an alloy thereof can be integrated into a rubber composition to form a rubbery composite material exhibiting a firm bond between the components by press bonding the metal at a temperature which approximate to the temperature at which the rubber composition is usually heated for vulcanization; that these material can be readily deposited on a substrate as a thin film by a dry plating process such as vacuum deposition, ion plating, DC and RF magnetron sputtering, bipolar sputtering and RF sputtering processes; and that a rubber composition can firmly bond to the resulting metal thin film. (See Column 3 lines 34-45) The reference further teaches that the substrates that can be used in the practice of their invention are not particularly limited with respect to their material type, shape, and size, and that these may be properly selected depending on the intended application. (See Column 5, lines 18-41) Further, the reference teaches that the rubbery composite materials of their invention will find wide applications in steel tires, conveyor belts, and hoses, among others. (Column 4, lines 62-64)

While the teachings of the '932 reference do not preclude the use of a non-woven fabric, the use of non-woven fabrics as reinforcements for applications such as tires is well known as it is taught by the JP 10-053010 reference below.

The JP 10-053010 reference teaches the use of unwoven fabric (non-woven fabric) in a rubber-filament complex of a fiber reinforced member layer in a pneumatic radial tire. (Abstract)

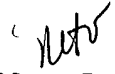

It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to modify the rubbery composite material and provide it with a non-woven fabric with the motivation of improving the rigidity and stability of the article including the composite material as disclosed by the JP 10-053010 reference.
